Record Sharing:
 Shared records are available to health care providers who use the same clinical record system, called "System one". Your GP records can be shared with organisations who are also providing you with care (called "sharing out") such as the community nursing team. The information other organisations such as the community nursing team that hold about you can be shared into your GP record (called "sharing in"). Our practice policy is to automatically share out all the information for those aged under 5 years and over 75 years for patient safety.

Summary Care Records:
 Most people in England have a basic NHS Summary Care Record which contains key health information about you, however additional information can be added that could be important to your treatment. This is called an Enhanced Summary Care Record.

This means that if you have to call an ambulance, contact 111, the Out of Hours service or go to hospital anywhere in England, they will be able to access vital health information about you, which could help them treat you more quickly and effectively.

Having an Enhanced Summary Care record means you don't have to remember all of the details of your past care.

Summary Care Record Options:	Please tick
Yes I would like an Enhanced Summary Care Record containing details of my medications, allergies and any bad reactions to medications I have had AND any other information that I have agreed with my GP Practice to have included in my Summary Care Records.
